Who do you say I am?' This is not only the question that Jesus poses to the apostles, but one which He asks of us every single day. Peter gives us what seems at first to be a model answer: "You are the Christ" – but it is not quite enough to satisfy Jesus. This is because when He begins to unfold exactly what it means to be Christ, who will suffer and die, Peter takes issue.

The full answer to the question 'Who do you say that I am?' has to come not just from the head, but the heart; not just from words, but from action. The question is answered by our lives: lives, that, as Jesus says rather strangely, have to be 'lost', in order to be 'saved'. The martyrs of 15th and 16th Century England had a prayer that they would pray on the scaffold: "Jesus, Jesus, Jesus, be to me a Jesus" – words that are inscribed over the altar at the convent of Tyburn, where so many of them died for the faith. The name Jesus means 'Saviour', so by saying 'be to me a Jesus', they were asking for the grace to respond to Christ where Peter at first failed, by acknowledging that they had no life without God. They realised that as fallen men and women, without Jesus, they had no claim to eternity. Christ's Passion is absolutely necessary for all of us, if we are to live forever; refusing to join ourselves to the Cross, cannot give us life beyond death. We can never prioritise our own safety and comfort before this truth; choosing to love only this life means not letting Jesus be 'a Jesus' at all: not letting Him save.

The disciples certainly came to understand this, as both Peter and James went on to show after the Resurrection. James writes "I will prove to you that I have faith by showing my good deeds – now you prove to me that you have faith without any good deeds to show." (Jas 2:8) The Lord gives us many opportunities to respond to do this, even in the parish. We need witnesses who can come forward to help in many ways: for example, as Readers, Extraordinary Ministers of the Eucharist, as members of the SVP, catechists, cleaners, singers, to name but a few. Most importantly at the moment, we need volunteer Welcomers to help set up before Sunday Masses, tidy away, collect donations, and provide a friendly face and helping hand to our congregations. Please get in touch if you could help in any of these ways, and don't be afraid to come out of your comfort zone. It is not only in dramatic acts that we proclaim Jesus to be the Christ, but by undertaking the littlest things too.
