In the Gospel for this Trinity Sunday, Jesus gives four commands: to go, to make disciples, to baptize, to teach. Which of these is most important? In surveys over the years, the answer has been given that the Catholic Church has a rich tradition of baptizing and giving the other sacraments, it has provided solid teaching in schools and universities. Missionaries have followed the call to “go” with the faith to all parts of the world. Only a minority of those questioned suggest that “making disciples” is the key purpose of the Church.

But in the original Greek, Jesus’ final, solemn instruction to the apostles is: “Going out therefore, make disciples of all the nations, baptising them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all the commands I gave you”. There is only one main verb and it is to “make disciples”, whether Christians who have struggled in their faith, or those who have never heard of Jesus Christ. We rightly value the Church’s role in baptising and teaching our children, but its primary purpose is making disciples, that is “learners” who are engaged in a lifelong process of following Jesus, the master.

Many of us carry a burden of guilt that our children and grandchildren do not seem to follow the faith. We tried to pass it to them as our parents and grandparents did for us. Have we been particular failures? None of us is perfect, but the fact is that in the last half-century huge social changes have swept over us like a tidal-wave. Those bonds of Catholic culture and community that once would have held the generations in the same way of life and practice, have not disappeared entirely but they have been submerged in a global culture carried by the internet and social media.

So the Church is now being challenged to ask, what is our essential identity and mission? We are like those first Christians after that first Easter, humble but believing we have in Jesus a way of life that feeds the soul and leads us to where happiness is real and not a false promise. To some this message is crazy and a dream, but to others it is a deep truth. And when we talk of the ‘Church’, this means not just the bishops and priests but all of us who come to the ‘church’ building, little ‘c’. This world is beautiful but it won’t automatically uphold the values of truth and authentic love. We will only uphold those values if we set out each day and our whole life, to “disciple” ourselves from the Lord – and “make disciples” of others.

ENQUIRIES FOR SACRAMENTS

Baptisms: We are preparing a course for those seeking baptism for their child. This will take a little time, meanwhile please email the Parish Office.

First Communion: Those who were on the programme 2019/20, since last August have been celebrating First Communion at the Mass and in the church they usually attend, simply emailing in to the Parish Office requesting a date to arrange this. Each family has one bench reserved for them. For those who enquired in 2020 for this year, 2021, the difficulty has been that we have not been able to use the Parish Centre at St Agnes or Our Lady of Ransom for catechesis. We hope this will change after June 21st.

Meanwhile all enquirers were invited to the Online Faith course of 6 'faith refresher' sessions that can be done by families at home, and to a Zoom conference with Fr Raglan in April. Two more instalments of that course and another Zoom invitation will be sent out after half-term. Meanwhile please email the Parish Office.

Confirmation

There is not a 'confirmation course' as such but, together with Christ the King parish, our parish has continued online the 'Lumen Christi' group which is always open to young people who wish to explore their faith and who in time may feel they wish to request confirmation. The Lumen Christi group are now going to be able to meet in person with the relaxation of the Covid regulations

CHANGE IN REGULATIONS AT MASS. With the move to Step 3 of the Covid regulations, we do not have to Steward weekday Masses any longer, and therefore can offer additional Masses: on Monday and an Extraordinary Form (Latin) on Tuesday, at the same time as the other Masses, 11am. Also, the priest or minister of the Eucharist is again allowed to say to each communicant, "The Body of Christ".

Our prayers and congratulations to them all.
