Just before this Sunday's Gospel, Jesus had the very human experience of failure: people who heard his teaching and saw his healing miracles were still not moved to become followers. St. Matthew constantly balances two things. Firstly, the Gospel is a challenge, it confronts us with a commitment of our whole lives. Yet it is 'good news', because at its heart is a vision which Jesus called the Kingdom. And the difference between vision and fantasy, was the presence of the Kingdom even in the hard realities of peoples' lives: "Come to me, all you who labour and are overburdened". We too can feel worn down by the blows of life and find it hard to believe in our dreams anymore. If we bring these situations to God it is often the things that drive us mad which are the mirror image of what we really hope for. For example, I sometimes struggle with the way our Catholic schools show such vitality and inspiring values, but for many they are a different community to those who gather in Church on Sunday. What would it mean if a priest decided therefore, that it was all the more important to spend time in the school, and there would be no Mass in the parish on that day? Another comment I find looking in my diary is this: "why am I spending so much time trying to recruit more eucharistic ministers (or readers)?" Surely I'm concerned to make Mass a good experience and this means finding people to take a role? The answer I think is that we need everyone to share in this responsibility for the Mass. If the priest spends his time making sure everything is in place for a good Eucharistic experience, he will never move on to offer a vision of "where we might go from here". Another regret is to see families at children's liturgy, or in the first communion programme, and then suddenly they are no longer there on Sunday. Father James Mallon put it this way: "we have made formation continuous (it happens intensively while we are young) but terminal (as soon as we grow older we thankfully drop it forever!). A culture of 'discipleship', on the other hand, believes that we are learning all our lives; Christianity is for grown-ups too, living in all the complexities of the modern world. Yet it offers something essential in return. Jesus contrasted those who are "learned and clever" in their own eyes, with those who are "mere children" in a spiritual sense: faith purifies us of the self-interest that distorts our vision.

RE-OPENING OF CHURCHES FOR MASSES

Thank you to the dedicated team of stewards who have already started stewardship at the opening of the churches for private prayer and Masses. To enable us to open the churches more often for Masses we still need more volunteer Stewards and Readers. If you are able to go on the rota please email Mary at the parish office. We regret we are not, at present, allowed to accept those who are over 70 and/or with health conditions or a vulnerable member of the family at home.

MASSES STARTING AGAIN

Please see the usual back page for the Masses we are able to have this week. Among the many requirements we have to follow, are the provision of stewards; as we have more volunteers, we can have more Masses.
However, some people may still be cautious of risking their health, and the Bishops are continuing to say that the Sunday obligation does not apply at the moment, so do not feel obliged to come if you have doubts.
You can still follow the Mass that is live-streamed at 9.15am.

If you are coming to Mass, and can come on a weekday, that will free up a place for those who can only come on Sunday. The Mass may look and feel different to what we are used to. We are following the social distancing rule that only requires 1- metre apart, so as to accommodate as many as we can, but this means we have to come with a mask. We are asked to enter by the main door on Grange Road and everyone will leave by the side door on Meads Road which is now a one-way exit. Families and couples who form one household can of course sit together and simply observe 1-metre distance from others.

A bench of people on their own, on the other hand, will likely have one person at either end, and one in the middle. There will also be an overflow Mass in the Parish Centre. Sadly we are not allowed to sing (but may have music played). There will be no collection, but you may leave offerings at a donation box as you leave the church. Communion will be only the host, and only in the hand; after receiving everyone will leave straightaway by the exit. We are not allowed to have coffee after Mass.
This all sounds very mechanical but it will be wonderful to be in prayer together once again!

All Masses are currently at Our Lady of Ransom.

Mass will also be livestreamed on our YouTube channel where marked [L/S] All those attending Mass MUST bring and wear a face covering and maintain 1m social distancing from other households.

As seating is limited, you are advised to be in good time.

Where marked [O], overflow seating will be available in the Parish Centre, where a second priest, if available, will offer a separate Mass – or else Mass from the main church will be simultaneously broadcasted there on the screens.
